U.S. Tracking Second Drug as 6 Women Die

Thalidomide Shares Spotlight Now with Birth Control Pill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government, still tracking down remaining stores of thalidomide, has revealed that six women died after using another drug—a birth control pill known as Enovid.

As yet, the Food and Drug Administration said Friday, there is no evidence the tablets caused the deaths. But both the manufacturer, G. D. Searle & Co. of Chicago, and the FDA have the drug under an "intensive investigation," the agency said.

The immediate cause of all the deaths apparently was thrombophlebitis, blood clots accompanied by irritation of the veins.

In addition to the six deaths there have been 20 non-fatal cases of thrombophlebitis among women who have taken Enovid, the FDA reported.

The U. S. statement was issued after British medical authorities issued a warning against the use of the contraceptive pill.

The British Medical Journal reported four women in Britain developed thrombosis after taking the pill—called Conovid there—and one of them died. It said there were similar instances in the United States.

As did the American officials, the British journal stressed that evidence linking the pill to the illnesses and deaths is at present circumstantial.

The Enovid development came on the heels of an outcry over the sedative, thalidomide, blamed for the malformation of thousands of infants in Europe whose mothers took the drug during early pregnancy.

U.S. officials said Friday that all supplies of thalidomide it has been able to locate in U.S. doctors' hands have been destroyed or impounded.

However, officials still have not been able to reach 158 of the 1,231 physicians who are reported to have received the drug for experimental use. These physicians were on vacation or had moved. The FDA said it was continuing its efforts to locate them.

Thalidomide was kept off the American market by a government scientist, Dr. Frances Kelsey, who refused to approve the licensing application. But it was distributed extensively for clinical testing.

The FDA said in announcing the investigation of the birth control pill and the six deaths that "The question of the possible causal relationship is under intensive investigation."

Fire Destroys 11 Dwellings

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Blackened chimneys and ash-covered foundations are all that remain of 11 homes on a quiet Kansas City residential street. Twenty-three others show fire and blast damage.

A 30-inch natural gas main burst Friday at the intersection of 46th and Wyoming, a few blocks northwest of the Country Club Plaza.

For 10 minutes gas spouted from the 15-foot-deep crater, saturating the area of small, neat homes.

Then something ignited the gas and flames shot 150 feet high and enveloped the neighborhood.

Those 10 minutes had given the residents time to flee. Only four persons were injured, none severely.

The blazing inferno spread from house to house. Officials of the Gas Service Co. said they didn't know what caused the big main to burst. Also shattered was an eight-inch distribution gas line.

Dayton Mystery Grows

Babysitter, 17, Is Missing, Too

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Now a 17-year-old babysitter is missing, adding another angle of mystery to the Wednesday night disappearance of Dayton City Commissioner David Pottinger.

Police reported Friday night that Sherryl Lee VanderWiel, a frequent babysitter for Pottinger's two children, left her suburban Kettering home about 8:30 Friday morning, leaving a note which said she was "going away and will write."

According to police the girl withdrew $100 from a credit union at the Dayton Power Light Co. where her mother, Sylvian, is employed. It was explained that members of an employee's family can belong to the credit group.

Pottinger, 26, disappeared after attending a City Commission meeting Wednesday night. He was believed to have had about $2,100 with him at the time.

Mrs. Eleanor Chittenden, Pottinger's mother, said her family and the VanderWiels had been friends for years. She said Sherryl had been upset by Pottinger's disappearance and had visited the family Thursday night.

Both Mrs. Chittenden and Kenneth VanderWiel, Sherryl's brother, said they had no reason to connect the girl's absence with Pottinger's disappearance.

Police said there was no mention of Pottinger in the note, but there was some indication of friction between the girl and her mother.

Sherryl, a high school senior, was described as 5-foot-7, weighing 125 pounds and having brown hair.

Theories of robbery and Pottinger's investigation into city crime have been advanced in the official's disappearance.

Montgomery County Prosecutor Paul Young said Pottinger was particularly interested in gambling activities in East Dayton. Pottinger's abandoned station wagon, blood stains on the gearshift and control panel, was found in the East Dayton area early Thursday morning.

Friday night investigators found a .38 caliber pistol, which appeared to have been fired, on a levee about a half-mile down the road from where the station wagon was discovered.

The commissioner's wife, Martha Jean, said she shared the belief that her husband's disappearance was connected with the crime probe.

The city commissioners have offered a $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of anyone involved in the case, if a crime was committed.

Tycoon Ready To Surrender

New Yorker Indicted In Texas Estes Probe

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—New York corporation chief Maynard Wheeler, president of Commercial Solvents Corp., is due to surrender Monday on a Texas antitrust indictment growing out of the far-flung Billie Sol Estes case.

His attorney, Whitman Knapp, said that Wheeler would present himself at 10 a.m. Monday to police in Manhattan.

Wheeler, Estes and R.E. (Bob) Clements, former owner of Superior Manufacturing Co. of Amarillo, Tex., were indicted by a grand jury here Thursday. Their names were not revealed until Friday. Superior Manufacturing Co. was a key company in the Estes operations.

The indictments against Wheeler and Estes charge two counts of conspiracy to fix prices on anhydrous ammonia fertilizer and two counts of restraint of trade. Wheeler denied the charges Friday in a statement issued in New York.

Estes and Clements, the latter a co-founder of the historic Townsend Plan for the Aged in the 1930s, surrendered to Potter County (Amarillo) officers and were released immediately on bonds of $10,000 each.

In Dallas, Morris D. Jaffe of San Antonio, Tex., said he was negotiating with the Estes receiver, Harry Moore, to buy the Estes assets. In El Paso, where most of the Estes case has been heard so far, unofficial estimates have put the value of the assets at around $6.5 million.

Jaffe, a discount store chain owner and reputed millionaire at the age of 32, said he regarded the whole thing "merely as an investment."

New Legal Block Hinted For Soblen

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Robert Soblen's attorney prepared today to throw up new legal roadblocks if the British government tries to return the convicted Soviet spy to the United States on any airline except El Al. The Israeli government line stuck by its refusal to carry him.

The Home Office gave El Al until midnight next Wednesday to decide whether it will fly Soblen back to the United States to serve his life sentence for peddling war-time secrets to the Russians.

The British government first ordered El Al to fly Soblen to New York Friday but the line refused on orders of the Israeli government.

The Home Office insisted, however, that it was El Al's responsibility to transport Soblen to the United States.

An El Al official suggested earlier that Soblen's ticket might be transferred to another airline.

Zoblen jumped $100,000 bail in New York in June and fled to Israel on his dead brother's passport. Israeli authorities expelled him and put him on an El Al plane bound for New York.

But Soblen maneuvered his way into Britain by slashing his abdomen and wrists in a fake suicide attempt on the flight to London.

Fair's Grand Champion Steer Purchased by First National

CHAMPION PURCHASE — David Harmon of the First National Bank stands beside the 885-pound Black Angus steer purchased by his firm last night. On the right is Becky Kinsell who reared and entered the prize animal. The top $1.10 per pound auction price set a new record for the Fair livestock sales.

Livestock buyers, parents of 4-H youngsters, farmers and spectators packed the judging arena at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds last night to watch the record-breaking Junior Fair Livestock auction sale — the high light of the 4-H year for many youngsters.

The sale, conducted by the Bowling stockyards, was "without doubt the most successful auction sale ever staged at the Fair," according to show officials.

The top price of $1.10 a pound paid for the grand champion steer set a new high, the grand champion lamb brought a record $2 a pound and the grand champion market hog topped all previous sales at $1.60 per pound.

The First National Bank of Circleville purchased the steer, an 885 pound animal fed and shown by Becky Kinsell, a member of the Madison Live Wires 4-H Club.

WILLIAM Crist, who bought the steer for the Bank, was pushed to the record breaking price by the Fellers Feed Store of Lithopolis, the runnerup bidder.

Robert Dick placed the top bid on the grand champion lamb for the Farmers National Bank of Williamsport. The 87-pound market lamb was raised by Judy Dean, also a member of the Madison Live Wires.

Terry Reed, a member of the Duvali Go-Getters, was the owner of the grand champion market hog, purchased for the First National Bank of Circleville by Donald Hill of the Hill Implement Co.

Young Reed made a clean sweep of the market hog show, also exhibiting the grand champion pen of three.

These were purchased by the Red Rose Farm Service.

The reserve champion steer, fed and exhibited by Robert Bower of the Pickaway Beef and Sheep Club, was purchased by the Circleville Oil Co. for 42 cents per pound.

The reserve champion Angus steer, shown by Joan Enoch, also of the Pickaway Beef and Sheep Club, went to George W. Van Camp at 42½ cents per pound.

THE SECOND highest price steer in the sale, a Hereford shown by Mike Smith, was purchased for 50 cents a pound by the Teegardin Grain Co.

Darrell Hatfield was successful bidder for the champion heavy weight lamb, getting the 93-pound animal for $1 a pound.

The reserve champion hog, belonging to Gary Wisecup, went to the New Holland Grain Co., at 37 cents per pound.

Tension mounted in the sale as Col. Willson Leist, the auctioneer, approached the one dollar mark and the spectators spontaneously applauded when it was reached. The price was one of the highest, if not the highest paid at any county fair sale this year, according to Frank Bowling Jr. of the Bowling Stockyards.

The sales totaled a whopping $37,904.11. The average price paid held up well throughout the sale as the quality of the animals offered was excellent.

The average price per hundred-weight paid for the cattle was $36.81. This was $7.65 higher than the top price paid for prime steers in Chicago yesterday. The cheapest steer sold was purchased for $31.50, more than $2 above the Chicago top.

THE LAMBS averaged $31.29. Yesterday's top lamb price paid in Columbus was $24 and the hogs averaged $22.21 well over the $19 top market.

There were 70 head of cattle in

IT NEVER fails... During the Junior Livestock auction sale last night a little lad came to the auctioneer's stand with tears in his eyes—he was lost. However his father was close at hand and they were soon reunited.

LATER it happened again, only in reverse. A mother had lost her youngster. He was soon found when David Luckhart announced his name over the public address system at the livestock barns.

Shortened Work Week Idea Pushed

PITTSBURG (HAP)—United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald has reaffirmed his stand that a shorter work week with no cut in pay is necessary to meet the nation's impending labor problems.

Addressing the 64th annual International Convention of the Federation of Eagles Friday McDonald said, "we do not seek shorter hours merely to allow man more time to be idle."

"We believe that shorter hours are required to absorb the impact of automation and to provide the opportunity for the millions of young people who will be added to the work force year by year," he said.

McDonald said the primary aims of the Steelworkers Union were job and income security.

Son, 14, Near Death, Blamed For Shootings

Grove City Boy Found With Target Pistol Near Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio highway patrol corporal, his wife, daughter and young son were found slain or wounded fatally in their home today. Another 14-year-old son suspected of the killings is near death in a hospital.

The bodies of Cpl. Ralph R. Lanker, 45; his wife Virginia Fern; a daughter Bea, 12; and son Thomas, 9, were discovered in their home near suburban Grove City, southwest of Columbus. They had been shot with a .28 caliber target pistol.

Ray Lanker, the six-foot, teenage son of the patrolman later was found near a freeway exit in the northern part of Columbus. Police said the boy apparently had fired a bullet into his temple. He is in critical condition in Riverside Hospital.

The target pistol police believe was used in all the shootings was found along with the teenager. It belonged to his father.

No motive for the shootings was apparent immediately.

Both police and highway patrolmen had started a widespread search for the teenager before he was found at the freeway exit.

Patrol Capt. P. S. Kinsey said first information in the case came from Columbus police. They had reported that a man had spotted a patrol car being driven at a high rate of speed on North Fourth Street, and that the driver appeared to be a civilian teenager.

The civilian who spotted the car managed to halt it, Capt. Kinsey said, and the youth at the wheel, unable to produce credentials, drove off again. His description matched that of Ray Lanker. The next time the car was seen, it had been abandoned on the freeway. Its signal light on top of the car had been removed, and an effort had been made to obliterate the patrol number on the car.

Patrol officers then learned the car had been assigned to Cpl. Lanker. A telephone call to his home drew no reply. A patrol unit dispatched to the home found the corporal, his wife and the two young children. All were dead with the exception of the younger child, Thomas. He died before reaching the hospital.

Lanker was a 20-year veteran of the patrol, having entered the training academy in 1941. His first duty assignment had been at the Salem Post in northeast Ohio, then in 1951 he returned to the academy as a member of its staff. Promoted to corporal in 1956, he was due to be reassigned to communications duty this month.

West Is Likened To 'Stinky' Goat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in one of his earthiest parables to date, has compared the Western powers to a smelly billy goat. But he added that he would rather put up with the smell than fight.

Said Khrushchev in a speech to farmers in his native village of Kalinovka:

"What the devil do we need with a war? If one has to keep a billy goat in the house, one can get used to the smell and live. Let us look on imperialism as a billy goat, only our house is the whole planet."

"It is better to live with the billy goat, to put up with its stink, but, as the saying goes, not to let him into our garden."

Vatican Radio Tells Church Objections to All Abortions

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican Radio has gone into detail as to why the Roman Catholic church firmly opposes abortion.

The broadcast Friday did not mention American television actress Sherri Finkbine by name, but said that fear of giving birth to a deformed baby was no justification for abortion. Mrs. Finkbine is seeking an abortion because she fears her unborn baby will be deformed as a result of her having taken the dreaded drug thalidomide.

The Roman Catholic Church always has opposed abortions, claiming deliberate interruption of life is a violation of the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill."

Mrs. Finkbine's case has gained prominence in a current world wide furor over tranquilizers containing a drug called thalidomide. There are reports of mothers who used the drug in early pregnancy giving birth to deformed infants.

The Vatican radio's reference to her was obvious: "The publicity which the international press is giving to the case of a mother who desires, at any cost, to interrupt her maternity for fear that her child can be born deformed, seems to go beyond all permitted limits. "Nothing would be objectionable if these ample stories on the case were intended to arouse everywhere a sense of stupefied horror and unanimous reprobation. It seems, however, that between the lines is a timid and subtle insinuation that there is good will in the motives suggesting to a mother the slaying of her own child to avoid a possible disabled life," it said.

"It is understandable that a mother, in anguish over the expected unhappiness of her child, can desire death (for the child), and subjectively transform into a testimony of love the voluntary suppression of the life blossoming in her."

"It is not admissible that this subjective abhorrence should be transformed into a custom of life, into a moral principle."

U.S. Rocket Aide Asks for Red Asylum

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The Czechoslovak news agency CTK says that a member of a U.S. Army rocket unit in West Germany has sought political asylum in Czechoslovakia.

The agency said the soldier, identified as R. S. Hareld, asked for asylum on the grounds of racial discrimination in the West.

In Prague, Communist sources were reported to have told Western newsmen Hareld was a Negro officer, but CTK did not give his rank.

Hareld was accompanied by a German woman identified by CTK as Margita Schlottag, said to have been a U.S. Army employee in Germany.

In Washington, the Army said a Sgt. Raymond S. Hareld has been absent from his unit since May 8 and was last seen near the Czech-Austrian border May 30.

Hareld was listed as assigned to the 5th Missile Battalion, 1st Artillery, 32nd Artillery Brigade, at Wiesbaden, Germany.

Army records show his next of kin as Mrs. Hatsuoka Hareld of East Providence, R.I. He enlisted in the Army in December 1949.

"Nothing would be objectionable if these ample stories on the case were intended to arouse every where a sense of stupefied horror and unanimous reprobation. It seems, however, that between the lines is a timid and subtle insinuation that there is good will in the motives suggesting to a mother the slaying of her own child to avoid a possible disabled life," it said.

"It is understandable that a mother, in anguish over the expected unhappiness of her child, can desire death (for the child), and subjectively transform into a testimony of love the voluntary suppression of the life blossoming in her.

"It is not admissible that this subjective abhorrence should be transformed into a custom of life, into a moral principle."

U.S. Rocket Aide Asks for Red Asylum

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The Czechoslovak news agency CTK says that a member of a U.S. Army rocket unit in West Germany has sought political asylum in Czechoslovakia.

The agency said the soldier, identified as R. S. Hareld, asked for asylum on the grounds of racial discrimination in the West.

In Prague, Communist sources were reported to have told Western newsmen Hareld was a Negro officer, but CTK did not give his rank.

Hareld was accompanied by a German woman identified by CTK as Margita Schlottag, said to have been a U.S. Army employee in Germany.

In Washington, the Army said a Sgt. Raymond S. Hareld has been absent from his unit since May 8 and was last seen near the Czech-Austrian border May 30.

Hareld was listed as assigned to the 5th Missile Battalion, 1st Artillery, 32nd Artillery Brigade, at Wiesbaden, Germany.

Army records show his next of kin as Mrs. Hatsuho Hareld of East Providence, R.I. He enlisted in the Army in December 1949.

Mother Seeks Compensation; Warning Out on Another Drug

LONDON (AP)—A thalidomide mother announced plans today to fight a legal battle for compensation for hundreds of British babies deformed by the drug.

Pat Lane's 8-month-old daughter Julie escaped gross malformation.

"I must be the luckiest of all the affected mothers," she said at her Bristol home.

Julie was born with a small, twisted right ear, no left ear, and a skin over her eyes. Surgery has given the baby her sight and she can hear partly on the right side.

Many thalidomide babies are born without arms and legs. The drug was withdrawn from the British market last year.

"I want other thalidomide mothers to write to me and to raise a fund to fight a test case against the firm marketing this drug, or the authorities, to get compensation for the worst-hit babies and their parents," Mrs. Lane said.

Mrs. Lane, 28, took two thalidomide tablets when she was five weeks pregnant.

Doctors meanwhile issued a warning about another pill—an oral contraceptive.

After taking the synthetic hormone tablet, a young woman was reported to have developed phlebitis in the leg, with thrombosis. She died a week later from a clot in the lung.

The British Medical Journal reported she was one of four British cases known to have incurred thrombosis while taking the pill.

The British Medical Journal said that in the United States there apparently are a number of examples of women taking Enovid, the brand name of one contraceptive pill, developing thromboembolic complications, some of them fatal.

"We have been informed that these cases were reviewed recently at a private conference in the U.S.A. where it was concluded that oral contraception involved no more risk of thromboembolism than normal pregnancy," it said.

Scholars Choice

GAFFNEY, S. C. (AP) — Four youths appeared in General Sessions Court on connection with a series of break-ins.

Judge Frank Epps, learning that they had quit school, gave them the choice of returning to school or going on the chain gang.

Without hesitation, all four chose the chain gang.

Federal Money Grants to Ohio Total $323 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Federal money grants to Ohio during the fiscal year ended June 30 amounted to $323,579 or nearly $44 million more than during the previous year.

The figures were announced by State Auditor James A. Rhodes who said the federal money accounted for more than 19 per cent of the state's overall receipts. Biggest amount was the $175 million for highway construction.

Second to highway grants was some $51 million for the state's aid to the aged program. Third in line was federal money for aid to dependent children, $3. million.

Next was nearly $18 million in federal moneys for administration of the state's Bureau of Unemployment Compensation program.

"However, the risk is greater in pregnancy than at other times and it must be asked whether even this risk should be run just for contraception."

In the American Medical Association Journal last month, Dr. Edwin J. Decosta, a Chicago gynecologist, after studies of 1,645 women, wrote that the only hint so far of serious effects from the contraceptive pills were several cases of thrombophlebitis in women taking one drug. He said, however, that no indication was found that the drug was responsible.

A British Medical Journal spokesman said its information about American deaths connected with Enovid came from "what we believe is a very reliable source."

He declined to elaborate.

Dr. Decosta also mentioned some fatalities but did not say how many.

McElroy Has His Eye on Ohio Political Record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy has his eye on an Ohio political record.

He looks like the first candidate, and possibly the last, to have a crack at two $25,000 jobs in the same campaign year.

The offices paying that annual salary are governor of Ohio and mayor of Cleveland.

McElroy lost the Democratic nomination by a hair to incumbent Gov. Michael V. DiSalle last May in a campaign that rattled the party skeletons.

The defeat appeared to delegate McElroy to the private practice of law in his hometown of Cleveland, after four years in his $15,000 state job.

But Cleveland Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze accepted a surprise appointment as President Kennedy's secretary of health, education and welfare, leaving the top job in Ohio's largest city up for election grabs.

McElroy indicated strong intentions to run regardless of complications that usually surround Cleveland elections. The scope and intensity of his campaign for governor marked him as an able contender.

Currently in the driver's seat is Ralph S. Locher, former law director who took over as mayor from Celebrezze, subject to election for the remainder of the two-year term expiring next year.

Election officials ordered Democrat and Republican primaries on Oct. 2 to pick nominees for the Nov. 6 election. Subsequently, suits were filed in Cleveland and the Ohio Supreme Court to test that order and determine whether independents could get on the November ballot.

Court actions raised the prospect of prolonged litigation that could stall elections and enable Locher to serve out the unexpired term without a contest at the polls.

Some quarters apparently would like to avoid an election contest because of state and national political ramifications. Others obviously prefer it for the same reasons.

McElroy, in a hard-hitting gubernatorial campaign, stressed his ability to get along with the legislature. As a former three-term Cleveland councilman, he claims brighter prospects of wooing city lawmakers than the former mayor.

Hitchhiker-Driver Flees Lima Crash

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Police in Lima saw an auto run a red light, strike another car—then were stunned to see the driver jump out and run away leaving two passengers sitting in the car.

When the police officers questioned the equally surprised passengers about their runaway companion, they said they didn't even know him. He was a hitchhiker they had picked up on the road and they never bothered to ask his name.

The unidentified driver jumped from the car as it still was rolling after the collision at the corner of Union and Elm Streets. No one was injured. No charges were filed.

Ohio Family United after 3 Decades

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John Zissis, his wife Ioana and their son Angelo have settled down to a normal family life for the first time in 31 years.

For three decades the family has been apart, John in the United States, his wife and son in Greece, separated by a depression, a world war and a revolution.

John, 65, and owner of a Columbus restaurant, came to this country from his native Greece in 1913. On a trip home in 1929 he met and married Ioana.

He returned to America in 1931 to look for a job before bringing his family from Kastoria, Greece. The depression was on and all John could find was a $6 a week job. World War II struck and another delay.

Then as hopes were to be fulfilled, Greece was thrown into revolution by the Communists. Ioana and Angelo were kidnaped and taken to Poland where they remained until 1957.

With a few years of battling red tape behind him, 31-year-old Angelo arrived in the United States last April to meet the father he had never known. Ioana arrived Tuesday with plans to become a "real American and stay home and clean the house."

Tarheels Hold Ohio Woman

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Bond has been set at $5,000 for blonde, shapely and suntanned Beverly Jean Lambert, a 21-year-old Warren Ohio, native charged on 23 counts of forgery and with conspiracy in passing worthless checks.

Appearing in short shorts in City Court Wednesday, Miss Lambert waived a preliminary hearing. She was ordered held for Superior Court trial.

Miss Lambert, who was arrested in Daytona Beach, Fla., is among six persons arrested in connection with a ring that manufactured and passed bad checks in at least eight states. She also faces charges in Knoxville and Nashville, Tenn.

Charlotte detective Fred Hucks said Dennis Mason, recently convicted in Oklahoma City, was the ringleader. He said Mason used a printing press and checkwriter to produce phony checks which the others passed.

Youngsters from various schools made the six panel mural from thousands of pieces of glass, rocks and shells collected from the Ohio River.

All were fashioned into scenes depicting historical events and places in the county's history.

Currently in the driver's seat is Ralph S. Locher, former law director who took over as mayor from Celebrezze, subject to election for the remainder of the two-year term expiring next year. Election officials ordered Democrat and Republican primaries on Oct. 2 to pick nominees for the Nov. 6 election. Subsequently, suits were filed in Cleveland and the Ohio Supreme Court to test that order and determine whether independents could get on the November ballot.

Court actions raised the prospect of prolonged litigation that could stall elections and enable Locher to serve out the unexpired term without a contest at the polls. Some quarters apparently would like to avoid an election contest because of state and national political ramifications. Others obviously prefer it for the same reasons.

McElroy, in a hard-hitting gubernatorial campaign, stressed his ability to get along with the legislature. As a former three-term Cleveland councilman, he claims brighter prospects of wooing city lawmakers than the former mayor.

Some regard U.S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, former governor, Cleveland mayor and judge, as a factor in the city election because of his vote-getting ability. Locher was executive secretary to Lausche while governor.

But friends of McElroy assert that Lausche has his own reelection campaign to wage and that any attempt to mix in the Cleveland fuss could backfire. Locher has strong local backing of his own, they add.

Among likely Democratic prospects is Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan, former state senator. But the possibility of his election makes some party leaders shudder because common pleas judges would pick his successor. Most of the judges are Republicans.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle indicates publicly that he intends to stand clear of the heat in the Cleveland kitchen although he needs strong support in that Democratic stronghold for reelection. "I have proved that I don't know much about Cleveland politics," DiSalle observed wryly. The governor is friendly with Locher and Celebrezze although on the outs with local party organization leaders.

Some politicians assert that a tough Democratic fight in Cleveland might swell the vote enough to help DiSalle despite the licking he took from McElroy there in the gubernatorial primary.

Other Republican side, a boom for attorney Seth Taft, son of Cincinnati's Charles P. Taft and nephew of the late U.S. Sen. Robert A. Taft, failed to get off the ground. Latest recipient of GOP attention is Willard W. Brown, Cleveland industrialist and party fund raiser.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle indicates publicly that he intends to stand clear of the heat in the Cleveland kitchen although he needs strong support in that Democratic stronghold for reelection. "I have proved that I don't

Ohio Family United after 3 Decades

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John Zissis, his wife Ioana and their son Angelo have settled down to a normal family life for the first time in 31 years.

For three decades the family has been apart, John in the United States, his wife and son in Greece, separated by a depression, a world war and a revolution.

John, 65, and owner of a Columbus restaurant, came to this country from his native Greece in 1913. On a trip home in 1929 he met and married Ioana.

He returned to America in 1931 to look for a job before bringing his family from Kastoria, Greece. The depression was on and all John could find was a $6 a week job. World War II struck and another delay.

Then as hopes were to be fulfilled, Greece was thrown into revolution by the Communists. Ioana and Angelo were kidnapped and taken to Poland where they remained until 1957.

With a few years of battling red tape behind him, 31-year-old Angelo arrived in the United States last April to meet the father he had never known. Ioana arrived Tuesday with plans to become a "real American and stay home and clean the house."

One Category of Interest

If there is one category of human economic interest which can truly be said to encompass all citizens, it is the consumer. No matter what social, ethnic, hereditary, political or income group he belongs to, each person is a consumer of a wide variety of goods and services.

Despite his universal character, the consumer is frequently the overlooked contributor to economic well-being. During the brief interludes between economic tugs of war among all the smaller contributors, when attention is paid the consumer, it usually takes the form of an impatient prodding to get him active in the marketplace again.

Washington, by maintaining artificially high prices through its price-support programs, regulation of commerce and transportation, minimum wage laws and a lengthy list of other intercessions on behalf of one economic or political segment or another, is more guilty of shunning the consumer than either labor or management.

It now hopes to correct this oversight by the creation of a new commission, the Consumers' Advisory Council. Established by presidential order, the commission will work directly with the Council of Economic Advisers, the President's No. 1 economic advisory body.

The council will "examine and provide advice to the government on issues of broad economic policy, on governmental programs protecting consumers needs, and on needed improvements in the flow of consumer research material to the public."

It will also provide a forum for persons outside of government by giving "interested individuals and organizations a voice in these matters." The opportunity to be heard will be a welcome change from the present void of consumer recognition.

Consumers should make good use of the opportunity to insure this new council does not guard their rights so zealously as to eliminate competition in the marketplace.

Government Is Government

It is somewhat gratifying to learn that ours is not the only government snarled in red tape and weltering in confusion.

At Winfrith in England there is an atomic energy establishment. It contains two rooms, one done up in pink for the ladies, the other in blue for the men. By some inexplicable means the pink room wound up with a blue door and the blue room with a pink door. This, of course, led to some confusion — though probably not as much as did efforts to remedy the situation.

There was a top level meeting to straighten things out. Three possible courses emerged: Change the doors, paint them, or change the decor of the rooms.

Soon workmen appeared and switched the doors. All was well for a few hours, until the painters turned up. They painted the pink door blue and the blue door pink. Things were back where they started.

Whether it happened before or after the cabinet shakeup is uncertain. But government is government, and always to a certain degree self-defeating.

Politicians Often Fib

Politicians are forced by the circumstances of their trade to live from day to day. It is the philosopher and the historian who risk forecasting the course of events and who often take a stand which opposes the current fashions. Statesmen sometimes gamble on principles, but the politician must deal with what is before him.

Sometimes history and even public opinion reverse themselves, usually after the politician is dead and what seemed to be so very wrong when it was done, may, in later years, prove to have been right. To this, Herbert Hoover is an exception, for he has lived long enough for public opinion to have reversed itself and he who was regarded as a failure as President is now one of the most beloved men. On August 10, he will have a birthday party in West Branch, Iowa, where he was born and many will come from near and far to do him honor.

A figure such as Hitler will be judged by history a century or more from now very differently from today. However, this much is certain: he was a politician and therefore dealt with immediate events. He, like most politicians in all of history, lied freely when he needed to and men accepted his lies. So astute a student of political currents in 1933 as Walter Lippmann said of a speech that Hitler delivered:

"The Chancellor stated that 'nevertheless no German government will of its own volition break an agreement that cannot be abrogated except by substituting a better one. However, this acknowledgement of the legal character of such a treaty can only be a general one. Not only the victor has claims to the rights granted therein but also the vanquished. The right to demand revision of this treaty, however, is founded on the treaty itself. As the motif and measure of its demand, Germany desires nothing but the experience thus far attained, and the undeniable findings of logical, critical reason.' Unless I am greatly mistaken, this is the most definite pledge that has yet been given by any German government that it would pursue its claim for revision within the framework of the Covenant of the League of Nations."

I do not quote this to point to a failing of Walter Lippmann as a prophet. I admire him too much for that. Rather, I cite this as an example of how dangerous it is even for the brightest of men to trust to the words of politicians who always say what they need to say at the moment and change their minds when they need to change their minds.

I make this point as there is a tendency among our people to assume that because a man is in public life, he will lead rather than bend to the common will. As a matter of fact, the theory behind the vote is that the chosen person should represent those who choose him.

We are about to choose candidates for the 1962 Election—Gov. ernors, U. S. Senators, members of Congress. What do we expect of them? When they run for office, they will promise to serve their constituencies and each constituent will assume that he is the one who must be served. This is, of course, nonsense. No man could possibly serve so many masters.

Representative government is then not an acceptance of leadership but rather a matter of compromise. In fact, our government is so organized on a system of checks and balances among the Executive, the Senate and the House of Representatives that compromise is a built-in method. Without such a process we should be standing absolutely still at all times. If the people then assume that because a politician said so—and so in a campaign, he is to be trusted to hold to that position forever, they are bound to be disappointed, for so adamant and obdurate a person would fail utterly to accomplish anything under our system.

As the 1962 campaign really commences, therefore, we need to worry less about what men say and more about their character and what they have done in the past and their political associations.

We dare not assume that any politician can live up to his promises, but we can be sure that a man of character and decency will not betray his country. It is so easy, in politics, really to do nothing but to say much.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AFTER British humorist Ronald Searle returned home from his first comprehensive American tour, he reported, "I asked a mountaineer in West Virginia who was 103 years old how he passed his time. He told me that in winter he mostly sleeps, in springtime he chases a likely female cousin around the rocks, in the summer he makes moonshine whiskey out of potato peelings and coffee grounds, and in the fall he drinks it."

Distinguished Publisher Ben Huebsch entertained recently an authentic absent-minded professor. It was a hot evening and both gentlemen peeled off their jackets. About eleven the good professor sought to show Mr. Huebsch a document. He extracted a handful of papers from the inside pocket of the coat hung over the back of his chair, and hastily examined the lot. Unfortunately, he could not find the paper he wanted, and in some annoyance, threw the others in the trash basket. Mr. Huebsch protested mildly, "Hey, that's my jacket."

When Will Rogers confessed that he never had met them President Calvin Coolidge, a friend marched him right over to the White House, commenting, "I'll bet you can't get a chuckle out of old Cal in twenty minutes." "You're on," said Rogers. "I'll do it in twenty seconds."

"Mr. President," began the friend, "I want to introduce our great Oklahoma wit, Mr. Will Rogers." Will held out his hand, frowned, and said, "Excuse me, please, but I didn't quite get the name."

Coolidge laughed out loud—and the friend paid the bet!

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.

Writer's cramp is mental? Yes! It's more than aching fingers that relax after a short break and a few squeezes.

Susie knows. After her promotion to private secretary, her writing fingers began to feel tired.

At first she blamed a minor bruise, but gradually her fingers tightened into spasm and she couldn't control the pencil with either hand.

All nerves and muscles checked out perfectly. Those fingers could still slide coins into slots, fine-tune TV and knit and crochet. But they'd cramp up whenever she'd grasp a pencil to take a dictation. Just thinking about writing started aching spasms.

You can find the same problems in other occupations.

A flute player may lose lip control. A tailor can't grasp his needle. A watchmaker can't hold that magnifying glass in his eye. In each case, some mental strain triggers muscle twitches and spasms that keep you from working. An emotional problem is somehow linked to your work.

Susie's promotion may have brought on writer's cramp.

She had to make more decisions now — and she worried. She may have felt unworthy and guilty for accepting the promotion.

her mind too tired to distinguish between painful feelings and feeling pain. Everyone has minor aches and pains that usually go unnoticed.

After a while, writer's cramp can become a deep-rooted habit. The ideal cure uncovers the emotional strain so that you can adjust to it.

Meanwhile, muscle-relaxing tranquilizers may help. Hypnosis and suggestion can detour emotional tension into a different outlet — one that still lets you work.

Little toe spasms can't stop Susie from taking dictation. She's turning into a fine private secretary — with her writer's cramp inside her shoe!

Letters to The Editor

Dear Sir:

Is there some reason why something cannot be done to discourage those persons guilty of continued desecration and thievery in Forest Cemetery?

My personal experience in attempting to honor the memory of deceased member of my family by the presence of flowers in urns on the burial lot has been a most disheartening one.

I wonder how many others have undergone the same ordeal? Having replaced flowers in urns on my lot three times so far this summer prompts me to ask "Why?"

I realize fully the impossibility of constantly patrolling Forest Cemetery — but it does appear that with a small amount of effort and alertness at least some of this continual depredation could be eliminated.

MRS. FRANK KLINE

To The Editor:

Several members of the National Farmers' Organization from Pickaway County motored to Urbana this week.

Several hundred cars were met and escorted to the Fairgrounds there. Participants were greeted by the mayor of Urbana and congratulated on the stand NFO farmers have taken.

Mrs. Lee May, in a short talk, described farming as the backbone of the nation and the national economy. She urged farmers to join in one common cause.

NFO President Staley spoke to 1,500 farmers at this meeting. His subject was bargaining power.

His opening statement was that American farmers have $2 billion invested, but receive less than 4 per cent of this investment in return. He said the farmer should have a just share of the consumer's dollar—although he doesn't at present.

Doctors, lawyers, merchants and labor are all organized. I wonder why it is considered such an unpardonable sin for farmers to organize?

Space Tube On Display

CLEVELAND (AP) — A three-story - high "inner tube" which industrial researchers say could be inflated in outer space to form a space station for three men was put on display at the Lewis Research Center.

Goodyear Aircraft Corp. said the donut - shaped inflatable station is one of various structural types under study by the company. A smaller version of the inflatable space station, 24-feet in diameter, is being tested by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Langley Field, Va. Lewis Research Center, a NASA facility, will display the proposed space station for "youth day" tours this weekend.

The station here is 30 feet in diameter, with a metal canister at the hub to form an entrance and a dock where another vehicle could hook up at rendezvous in space. Once the station has been put in orbit and inflated, the team would be ferried to it by space capsule.

Georgia Youths Give Their Views On Racial Dispute

White Girl Sees Marches For Publicity

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — "I think it's useless"—that is the reaction of Kay Smith, 18, a white girl, to mass demonstrations by Negroes protesting segregation in her hometown.

The high school graduate who wants a career in journalism says she firmly believes in segregation, although she adds that "some day there will be integration."

"It's for nothing but publicity," Kay said, referring to demonstrations which have resulted in the arrest of more than 1,100 persons, mostly Negroes, since last December.

"Some of them know it's a stunt; others don't know any better," said the dark-haired daughter of a newspaperman and school teacher.

Kay said the jailing of Negro demonstrators "doesn't bother my conscience about segregation."

"I do feel sympathy for the juveniles who I believe are being used," she said, adding:

"I've never broken a law of any sort."

She explained that she believes the mass marches by integrationists violate a city ordinance requiring a permit for parades.

The teen-ager said soberly, "I'm afraid that the demonstrations may push some non-thinking white person into injuring a Negro and that would give them their desired martyrdom."

"I think they are endangering the peace. Demonstrations may be all right but not if they endanger somebody."

Asked what she considered a wiser course for the Negroes, Kay answered without hesitation:

"Clean up Harlem."

Harlem is the city's Negro section.

"A number of people in the colored community have not been forced to accept substandard housing and morals," she said. "They have pulled themselves up by their own bootstraps and are treated as equals by white people who know them well."

"But the people who are satisfied to live in shanties, they ought to clean up Harlem."

Kay Smith said she has this simple creed:

"There's no equality among people of any race."

Negro Girl Sees Jailing As Necessary

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — "I will give up my life for my freedom and for the children I hope some day to have," said Gloria Ward, 16, who has been jailed four times for marching in protest of segregation in Albany.

"I'm willing to go again," the Negro girl said.

The high school senior said she knows people wonder why Negroes go to jail.

"We really want our freedom and will sleep on concrete floors—we'll even die."

"It's no picnic," Gloria said, relating how she spent many nights crowded with other girls into small cells which she said crawled with roaches and other insects.

One of six children of Albany contractor William Ward Sr., the teen-ager said she thought out the matter before committing herself to join hundreds of others who have been jailed since December.

"I wanted to do something, too," she said.

"Why?" she repeated. "Something really hurt me once. We went to the park and my 3-year-old nephew wanted to ride at the amusement center. He can't ride and he cries."

"When mother and I go to town, there are lunch counters in the store where we spend money. We can't use them."

Gloria, who hopes to attend college and become a speech therapist, said she wasn't afraid when she first went to jail for marching with other Negroes.

"When they sent us to jail and the deputies said, 'You're not going to sing! I still wasn't afraid,' she said."

She said she believes that her going to jail will prick the conscience of white people and eventually bring about an understanding of the wrongs of segregation.

Gloria said she believes the next generation will be free of what she called color prejudice.

"It's not the color of the skin—it's the heart that counts," she said.

In fact, our government is so organized on a system of checks and balances among the Executive, the Senate and the House of Representatives that compromise is a built-in method. Without such a process we should be standing absolutely still at all times. If the people then assume that because a politician said so-and-so in a campaign, he is to be trusted to hold to that position forever, they are bound to be disappointed, for so adamant and obdurate a person would fail utterly to accomplish anything under our system.

As the 1962 campaign really commences, therefore, we need to worry less about what men say and more about their character and what they have done in the past and their political associations.

We dare not assume that any politician can live up to his promises, but we can be sure that a man of character and decency will not betray his country. It is so easy, in politics, really to do nothing but to say much.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AFTER British humorist Ronald Searle returned home from his first comprehensive American tour, he reported, "I asked a mountaineer in West Virginia who was 103 years old how he passed his time. He told me that in winter he mostly sleeps, in springtime he chases a likely female cousin around the rocks, in the summer he makes moonshine whiskey out of potato peelings and coffee grounds, and in the fall he drinks it."

Distinguished Publisher Ben Huebsch entertained recently an authentic absent-minded professor. It was a hot evening and both gentlemen peeled off their jackets. About eleven the good professor sought to show Mr. Huebsch a document. He extracted a handful of papers from the inside pocket of the coat hung over the back of his chair, and hastily examined the lot. Unfortunately, he could not find the paper he wanted, and in some annoyance, threw the others in the trash basket. Mr. Huebsch protested mildly, "Hey, that's my jacket."

When Will Rogers confessed that he never had met then-President Calvin Coolidge, a friend marched him right over to the White House, commenting, "Till bet you can't get a chuckle out of old Cal in twenty minutes." "You're on," said Rogers. "I'll do it in twenty seconds."

"Mr. President," began the friend, "I want to introduce our great Oklahoma wit, Mr. Will Rogers." Will held out his hand, frowned, and said, "Excuse me, please, but I didn't quite get the name."

Coolidge laughed out loud—and the friend paid the bet!

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.

Writer's cramp is mental? Yes! It's more than aching fingers that relax after a short break and a few squeezes.

Susie knows. After her promotion to private secretary, her writing fingers began to feel tired.

At first she blamed a minor bruise, but gradually her fingers tightened into spasm and she couldn't control the pencil with either hand.

All nerves and muscles checked out perfectly. Those fingers could still slide coins into slots, fine-tune TV and knit and crochet. But they'd cramp up whenever she'd grasp a pencil to take a dictation. Just thinking about writing started aching spasms.

You can find the same problems in other occupations.

A flute player may lose lip control. A tailor can't grasp his needle. A watchmaker can't hold that magnifying glass in his eye.

In each case, some mental strain triggers muscle twitches and spasms that keep you from working. An emotional problem is somehow linked to your work.

Susie's promotion may have brought on writer's cramp.

She had to make more decisions now — and she worried. She may have felt unworthy and guilty for accepting the promotion.

New extra work may have left her mind too tired to distinguish between painful feelings and feeling pain. Everyone has minor aches and pains that usually go unnoticed.

After a while, writer's cramp can become a deep-rooted habit. The ideal cure uncovers the emotional strain so that you can adjust to it.

Meanwhile, muscle-relaxing tranquilizers may help. Hypnosis and suggestion can detour emotional tension into a different outlet — one that still lets you work.

Little toe spasms can't stop Susie from taking dictation. She's turning into a fine private secretary — with her writer's cramp inside her shoe!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

BREMEN JR.—The big liner Statendam looks like a real, for sure leviathan as it moves through New York harbor with what appears to be another liner. The other "liner," however, is a 40-foot model of the passenger liner Bremen, and if you look close you can see the pilot sitting in the middle. It's Bremen Jr., which will make a U.S. waterway tour.

Letters to The Editor

Dear Sir:

Is there some reason why something cannot be done to discourage those persons guilty of continued desecration and thievery in Forest Cemetery?

My personal experience in attempting to honor the memory of deceased member of my family by the presence of flowers in urns on the burial lot has been a most disheartening one.

I wonder how many others have undergone the same ordeal?

Having replaced flowers in urns on my lot three times so far this summer prompts me to ask "Why?"

I realize fully the impossibility of constantly patrolling Forest Cemetery — but it does appear that with a small amount of effort and alertness at least some of this continual depredation could be eliminated.

MRS. FRANK KLINE

To The Editor:

Several members of the National Farmers' Organization from Pickaway County motored to Urbana this week.

Several hundred cars were met and escorted to the Fairgrounds there. Participants were greeted by the mayor of Urbana and congratulated on the stand NFO farmers have taken.

Mrs. Lee May, in a short talk, described farming as the backbone of the nation and the national economy. She urged farmers to join in one common cause.

NFO President Staley spoke to 1,500 farmers at this meeting. His subject was bargaining power.

His opening statement was that American farmers have $2 billion invested, but receive less than 4 per cent of this investment in return. He said the farmer should have a just share of the consumer's dollar—although he doesn't at present.

Doctors, lawyers, merchants and labor are all organized. I wonder why it is considered such an unpardonable sin for farmers to organize?

Space Tube On Display

CLEVELAND (AP) — A three-story-high "inner tube" which industrial researchers say could be inflated in outer space to form a space station for three men was put on display at the Lewis Research Center.

Goodyear Aircraft Corp. said the donut-shaped inflatable station is one of various structural types under study by the company. A smaller version of the inflatable space station, 24-feet in diameter, is being tested by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Langley Field, Va. Lewis Research Center, a NASA facility, will display the proposed space station for "youth day" tours this weekend.

The station here is 30 feet in diameter, with a metal canister at the hub to form an entrance and a dock where another vehicle could hook up at rendezvous in space. Once the station has been put in orbit and inflated, the team would be ferried to it by space capsule.

Georgia Youths Give Their Views On Racial Dispute

White Girl Sees Marches For Publicity

Negro Girl Sees Jailing As Necessary

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — "I think it's useless"—that is the reaction of Kay Smith, 18, a white girl, to mass demonstrations by Negroes protesting segregation in her hometown.

The high school graduate who wants a career in journalism says she firmly believes in segregation, although she adds that "some day there will be integration."

"It's for nothing but publicity," Kay said, referring to demonstrations which have resulted in the arrest of more than 1,100 persons, mostly Negroes, since last December.

"Some of them know it's a stunt; others don't know any better," said the dark-haired daughter of a newspaperman and school teacher.

Kay said the jailing of Negro demonstrators "doesn't bother my conscience about segregation."

"I do feel sympathy for the juveniles who I believe are being used," she said, adding:

"I've never broken a law of any sort."

She explained that she believes the mass marches by integrationists violate a city ordinance requiring a permit for parades.

The teen-ager said soberly, "I'm afraid that the demonstrations may push some non-thinking white person into injuring a Negro and that would give them their desired martyrdom."

"I think they are endangering the peace. Demonstrations may be all right but not if they endanger somebody."

Asked what she considered a wiser course for the Negroes, Kay answered without hesitation: "Clean up Harlem."

Harlem is the city's Negro section.

"A number of people in the colored community have not been forced to accept substandard housing and morals," she said. "They have pulled themselves up by their own bootstraps and are treated as equals by white people who know them well."

"But the people who are satisfied to live in shanties, they ought to clean up Harlem."

Kay Smith said she has this simple creed:

"There's no equality among people of any race."

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — "I will give up my life for my freedom and for the children I hope some day to have," said Gloria Ward, 16, who has been jailed four times for marching in protest of segregation in Albany.

"I'm willing to go again," the Negro girl said.

The high school senior said she knows people wonder why Negroes go to jail.

"We really want our freedom and will sleep on concrete floors—we'll even die."

"It's no picnic," Gloria said, relating how she spent many nights crowded with other girls into small cells which she said crawled with roaches and other insects.

One of six children of Albany contractor William Ward Sr., the teen-ager said she thought out the matter before committing herself to join hundreds of others who have been jailed since December.

"I wanted to do something, too," she said.

"Why?" she repeated. "Something really hurt me once. We went to the park and my 3-year-old nephew wanted to ride at the amusement center. He can't ride and he cries."

"He wonders why. When mother and I go to town, there are lunch counters in the store where we spend money. We can't use them."

Gloria, who hopes to attend college and become a speech therapist, said she wasn't afraid when she first went to jail for marching with other Negroes.

"When they sent us to jail and the deputies said, 'You're not going to sing! I still wasn't afraid,' she said.

She said she believes that her going to jail will prick the conscience of white people and eventually bring about an understanding "of the wrongs of segregation."

Gloria said she believes the next generation will be free of what she called color prejudice.

"It's not the color of the skin—it's the heart that counts," she said.

Dry weather prevailed over Ohio Friday night with temperatures mostly in the 60s. Near dawn, humidities were quite high and ground fog developed over many sections of the state. Some early morning temperatures included Columbus 62, Cleveland 63, Cincinnati 67 and Bellaire 66.

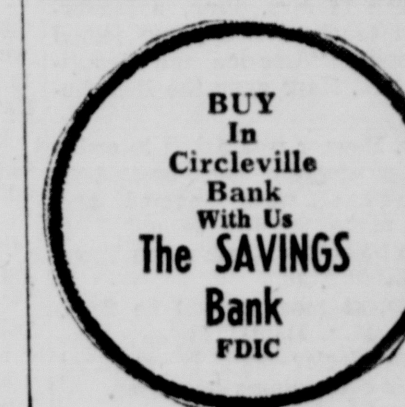

Warm, humid weather will continue through Sunday. The humid air combined with warm afternoon temperatures will increase the possibility of afternoon and evening thundershowers today. However, the most likely area for precipitation will be the northern counties.

Joey Bishop Plans Massive Change in His New TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—About the only resemblance between last season's Joey Bishop show and the coming season's is the name.

It's still "The Joey Bishop Show," NBC having vetoed the comedian's suggestion to call it "The New Joey Bishop Show."

Bishop fans may be startled to find their hero is no longer a press agent but a late-night television comic. Furthermore, he has jettisoned his mother, bless her heart, for a curvy wife. And he has acquired a whole new bunch of pals.

That Joey was able to make these changes is one of the minor miracles of television. Just about everyone, Joey especially, agreed that something was wrong with last season's shows. When a series pulls a wrongo, it is usually yanked at the first sign of spring.

But the series had somehow managed to best its competition on ABC and CBS and rack up an impressive rating. So when Joey promised a clean sweep in format for the next season, NBC went along.

Someone asked what went wrong last season.

"I showed up," he replied.

But on a more analytical basis, he continued: "We did many things wrong. We didn't have enough time to prepare. We violated a very basic concept in comedy. When you have a clever comedian—and in modesty I think I am—you surround him with clever people."

"I made the mistake of working with funny people — Guy Marks, who is a bright young comedian; Joe Besser, who can get laughs just walking on stage; and Abby Dalton from the 'Hennessy' show, a brilliant talent.

The "dog days", the hottest part of the summer, are so called because Sirius, the Dog Star, rises with the sun at that time. Ancient peoples thought it intensified the heat of the sun.

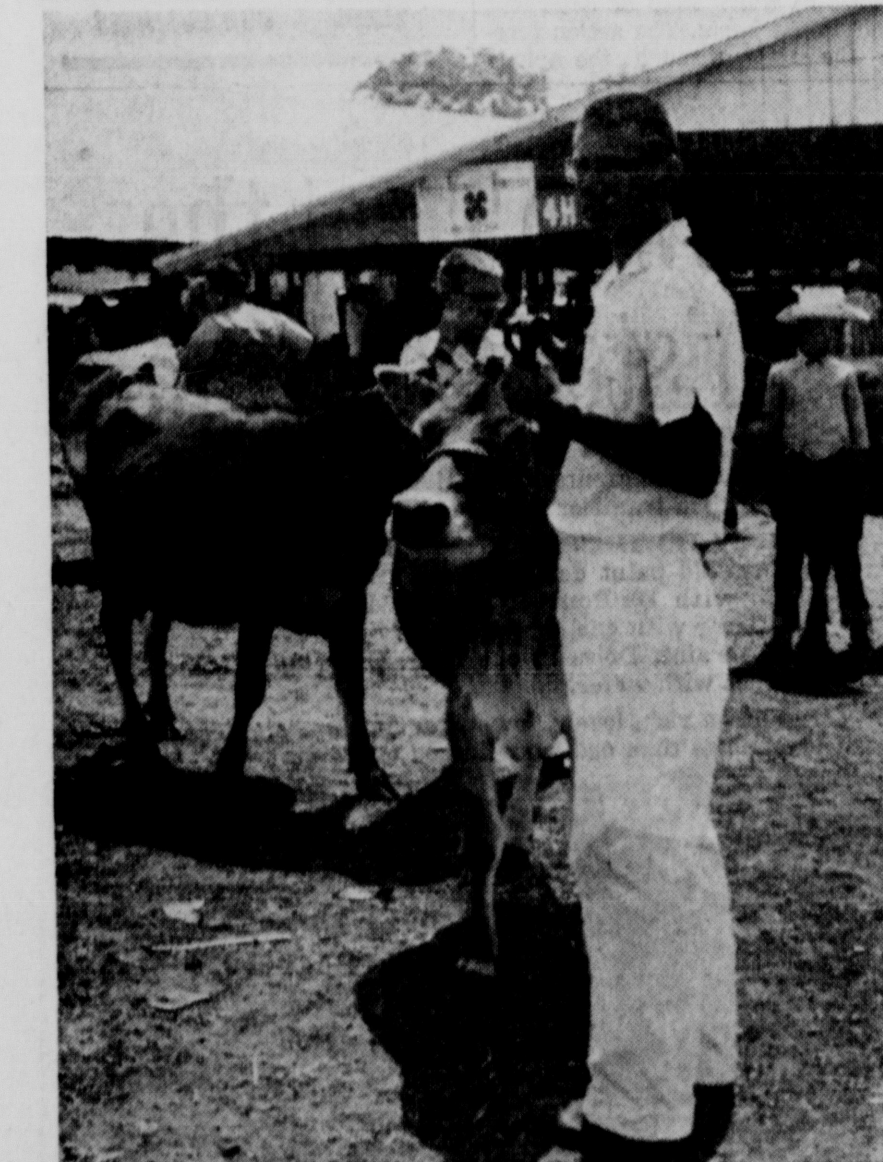

Ruling Defines City Rule over Fairgrounds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A municipal corporation, in which a county fairgrounds is located, may not acquire county fair concessionaires to obtain a license from the municipal corporation, Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy ruled today.

McElroy said the state requires such concessionaires to be licensed, and has thus pre-empted the field.

He added, however, that this does not apply to shows, etc., held at the fairgrounds at other times than the county fair, since the state does not require a license for such shows. Thus the municipal corporation may require a license where the concessionaire operates at the fairgrounds at times other than during the county fair.

The formal opinion was issued to James B. Patterson Jr., prosecuting attorney of Madison County.

ANTICIPATION — Butch and Randy McCoy waited patiently for their turn to show in the senior yearling division of the Junior Fair Dairy show yesterday. Both 4-H'ers entered Jerseys. The show kept judges busy for several hours yesterday. (Staff Photo)

'Miracle Baby' Is Doing OK

18-Month-Old Boy Has 7th Operation

RUSHMORE, Minn. (AP)—They call him the "miracle baby" and after seven operations in his 18 months it's no wonder.

Todd Groenewold was born March 3, 1961 without a connection between his esophagus and his stomach. The channel through which food must flow came to a dead end.

That meant trouble at once for the infant son of a farm couple, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Groenewold. Dr. R. R. Sawtell of Worthington, Minn., gave the baby oxygen and put him in an incubator.

Todd couldn't keep any food or water down and examination showed the serious trouble. He was taken to University Hospitals in Minneapolis for surgery. In a five-hour operation, surgeons connected the esophagus to the stomach.

A week later this broke down and frail Todd was rushed back for another five hours on the operating table. He was fed milk through a tube inserted directly into his stomach.

In another week a lung collapsed and Todd got bacterial pneumonia.

On April 17 last year a three-hour operation was required to correct the position of the feeding tube. By mid-May Todd weighed more than nine pounds and was sent home.

Doctors said he had survived 100-to-1 odds to live.

In April of this year, it was back to the hospital for three operations.

Now, Todd is back home and thriving much like a normal child. His esophagus still runs outside of Todd's breastbone. When he's about six, doctors will operate to place the tube inside the chest.

Cleveland Hearing Set

CLEVELAND (AP)—Chief Justice Carl V. Weygant of the Ohio Supreme Court has assigned Common Pleas Court Judge Eugene R. McNeill of Van Wert to hear a Citizens League suit on conduct of the Cleveland mayoral election. The hearing is scheduled for Aug. 13, and documents have been sent to Judge McNeill to study in advance.

Assignment of Judge McNeill was made after consultation with Chief Justice Samuel H. Silbert of Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court.

The Citizens League suit asks a determination of whether the election of a replacement for former mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze, now U.S. secretary of health, education and welfare, should be partisan or nonpartisan.

Joey Bishop Plans Massive Change in His New TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—About the only resemblance between last season's Joey Bishop show and the coming season's is the name. It's still "The Joey Bishop Show," NBC having vetoed the comedian's suggestion to call it "The New Joey Bishop Show."

Bishop fans may be startled to find their hero is no longer a press agent but a late-night television comic. Furthermore, he has jettisoned his mother, bless her heart, for a curvy wife. And he has acquired a whole new bunch of pals.

That Joey was able to make these changes is one of the minor miracles of television. Just about everyone, Joey especially, agreed that something was wrong with last season's shows. When a series pulls a wrong, it is usually yanked at the first sign of spring.

But the series had somehow managed to best its competition on ABC and CBS and rack up an impressive rating. So when Joey promised a clean sweep in format for the next season, NBC went along.

Someone asked what went wrong last season.

"I showed up," he replied.

But on a more analytical basis, he continued: "We did many things wrong. We didn't have enough time to prepare. We violated a very basic concept in comedy. When you have a clever comedian—and in modesty I think I am — you surround him with clever people."

"I made the mistake of working with funny people — Guy Marks, who is a bright young comedian; Joe Besser, who can get laughs just walking on stage; and Abby Dalton from the 'Hennessy' show, a brilliant talent.

The "dog days", the hottest part of the summer, are so called because Sirius, the Dog Star, rises with the sun at that time. Ancient peoples thought it intensified the heat of the sun.

'Miracle Baby' Is Doing OK

18-Month-Old Boy Has 7th Operation

RUSHMORE, Minn. (AP)—They call him the "miracle baby" and after seven operations in his 18 months it's no wonder.

Todd Groenewold was born March 3, 1961 without a connection between his esophagus and his stomach. The channel through which food must flow came to a dead end.

That meant trouble at once for the infant son of a farm couple, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Groenewold. Dr. R. R. Sawtell of Worthington, Minn., gave the baby oxygen and put him in an incubator.

Todd couldn't keep any food or water down and examination showed the serious trouble. He was taken to University Hospitals in Minneapolis for surgery. In a five-hour operation, surgeons connected the esophagus to the stomach.

A week later this broke down and frail Todd was rushed back for another five hours on the operating table. He was fed milk through a tube inserted directly into his stomach.

In another week a lung collapsed and Todd got bacterial pneumonia.

On April 17 last year a three-hour operation was required to correct the position of the feeding tube. By mid-May Todd weighed more than nine pounds and was sent home.

Doctors said he had survived 100-to-1 odds to live.

In April of this year, it was back to the hospital for three operations.

Now, Todd is back home and thriving much like a normal child. His esophagus still runs outside of Todd's breastbone. When he's about six, doctors will operate to place the tube inside the chest.

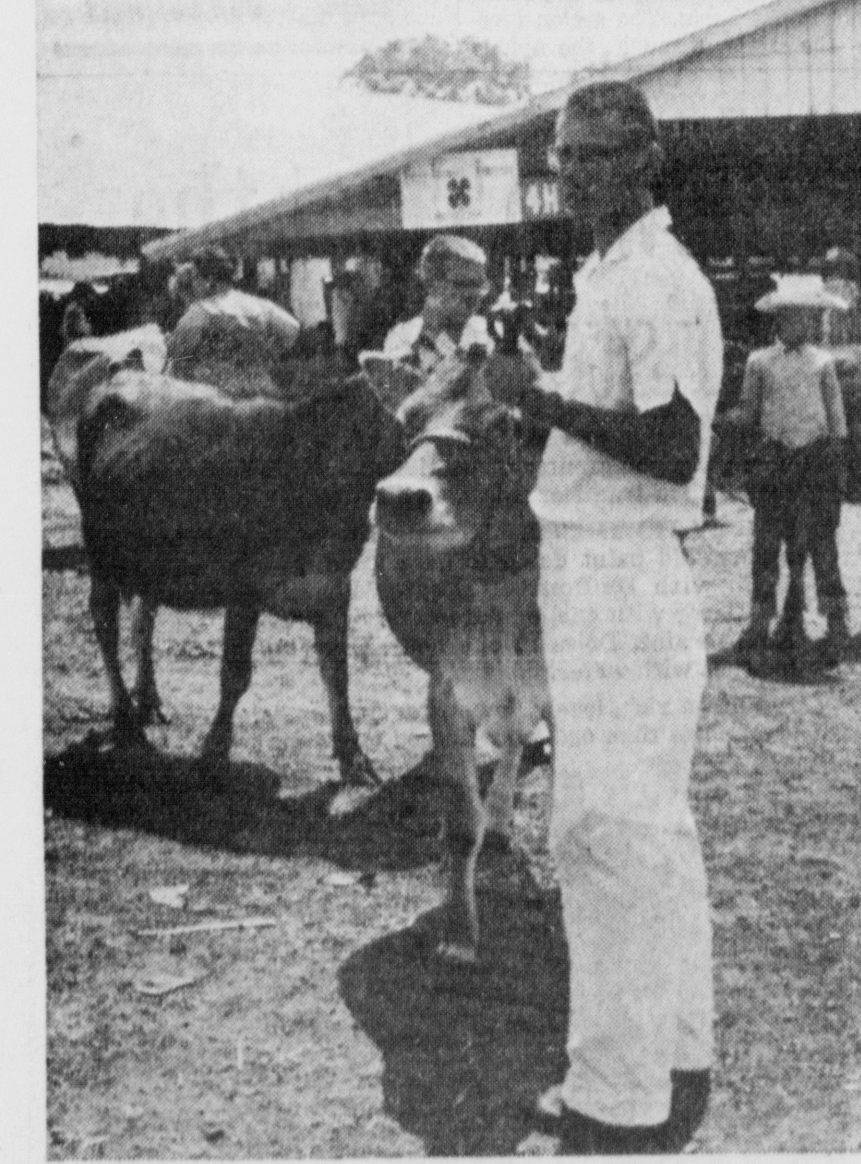

Cleveland Hearing Set

CLEVELAND (AP)—Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court has assigned Common Pleas Court Judge Eugene R. McNeill of Van Wert to hear a Citizens League suit on conduct of the Cleveland mayoral election. The hearing is scheduled for Aug. 13, and documents have been sent to Judge McNeill to study in advance.

Assignment of Judge McNeill was made after consultation with Chief Justice Samuel H. Silbert of Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court.

The Citizens League suit asks a determination of whether the election of a replacement for former mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze, now U.S. secretary of health, education and welfare, should be partisan or nonpartisan.

2 Local Women Enjoy Their Five-Week Tour of Europe

Mrs. William Collins, 632 Beverly Road, and Miss Ruth Montelius, Route 1, have returned from an extensive tour of Europe.

They emplaned first to Ireland where they rented a car for an extensive drive through the Emerald Isle.

From London the local pair flew to Copenhagen where they again rented a car for comprehensive tours of Denmark, Holland, Germany and through France and Paris. The return trip to New York was by jet airliner.

One highlight of the interesting five-week vacation tour was a visit to the southeastern section of England to see the famous Stonehenge. Another was "kissing the Blarney Stone" in Ireland.

In Rhonda Valley, Wales, they successfully located cousins of Dr. Richard Samuel of Circleville. The local dentist has never met the relatives.

Mrs. Collins and Miss Montelius visited with the Samuel kin for two days. They were graciously entertained.

Miss Montelius also attended the International Dental Congress in Cologne, Germany.

Glamour Girl Discloses Tips on Beauty, Charm

CLEVER TRICK — Glamorous Polly Bergen uses baby's toothbrush to groom brows into neat line.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

How does a glamour girl become glamorous? It takes trial-and-error tactics in mastering the art of make-up and it takes time and work.

So says an expert, a beauty well-known to TV, theatre and movie fans. She says it in her own words in "The Polly Bergen Book of Beauty, Fashion and Charm," which tells the ways and means one glamour girl uses to keep attractive from head to toe.

Her book doesn't miss a beauty topic and it is full of practical advice that will make a prettier you.

Here are some of Polly's tips, selected at random from her book.

Good Exercise: "Walk! But when I say walk, I mean walk—a minimum of an hour and a half or two. It will vitalize every part of your body, if you do it every day. Walking is simply wonderful."

Beauty Sleep: "I know how to catnap. I can go to sleep anywhere in the world and when I wake up, sometimes only fifteen minutes later, I feel wide awake and enormously rested."

Skin Care: "There are three things you must do for your skin if you want it to look as good as it can. You must keep it clean, keep it moist and stimulate it. This means three simple daily operations: you must wash your face, cream it and massage it."

Facial Massage: "All movements should go outwards and upwards, and from front to back. Use plenty of lubricating cream."

Hair Brushing: "Brushing your hair up from your neck in long, steady movements for a prolonged period of time is enormously relaxing, especially if you can do this while lying on your bed or couch with your head hanging slightly off the side."

Grooming Brows: "I groom my eyebrows into shape with a baby's toothbrush."

Foot Massage: "A good foot massage is a joy. Do your massaging after applying cream (lanolin or any dry skin cream), pushing the toe knuckles back each time and working the area just behind the toes, known as the arch, in a rotating, kneading motion. Then go to work in the same general way on your inner arch region. Work very much by feel, because the better it feels the better you're massaging."

Sitting Pretty: "The short skirt carries with it the responsibility of knowing how to sit in it without looking half naked."

"You cannot cross your legs in the new skirts, ladies. Nor can you, with good results, sit with your knees straight together and facing front."

"The only way you can sit in a short skirt and still look like a lady is with your legs together and swung gracefully to one side or the other."

These are just a few of the pointers that Polly covers in an encyclopedia of beauty and fashion advice that's illustrated with photographs and sketches.

The book is one that's bound to be popular with the star's many fans. They'll want to practice what she preaches in the hope that they'll be able to achieve the same results that make pretty Polly a glamour girl.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Aug. 4, the 216th day of 1962. There are 149 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1735, the first important American victory for freedom of the press took place when John Peter Zenger was acquitted of seditious libel charges. The printer and editor had bitterly criticized the administration of governor-in-chief of New York.

On this date:

In 1790, the U. S. Coast Guard was established.

In 1837, Texas petitioned for annexation to the United States.

In 1916, the United States bought the Virgin Islands from Denmark for $25 million.

In 1941, Japanese shipping to the United States was suspended.

In 1945, President Truman signed the Bretton Woods legislation whereby the United States became the first country ready to join the World Bank.

Today's birthday:

Recipe Given For American Jubilee Cherries

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Cherries Jubilee, served at some of our finest restaurants, epitomizes to many of us the most elegant of desserts. One of the pleasantest things about the dish is that it may be easily prepared at home.

American recipes for this "fruit flourish" stem from the Cherises Jubilee of Escoffier, the great French chef who was born in 1846 and lived until the 1930's.

For the dessert, Escoffier directed cooks to choose "fine sweet cherries," to pit and poach them in sugar syrup and to thicken the syrup with arrowroot or cornstarch; then to flame the cherries with heated kirsch — clear cherry brandy.

In the following recipe for American Cherries Jubilee, the addition of cherry brandy is optional. But don't leave out the vanilla — and we mean pure vanilla extract, not the synthetic variety. The vanilla flavor is necessary.

Escoffier was specific about how Cherises Jubilee were to be served — in "small silver timbales." In this country the cherries come minus the silver timbales, but with ice cream. If any sweet tastes better than this combination, we have yet to discover it.

AMERICAN JUBILEE CHERRIES

1 pound dark sweet cherries
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 cup water
2 teaspoons vanilla
Salt
1 1/2 pints vanilla ice cream

Wash and stem cherries. Using the pointed end of a swivel-blade vegetable parer, remove pits so cherries are whole. In a 1-quart saucepan stir together the sugar and cornstarch; gradually stir in the water so mixture is smooth. Cook and stir over moderately low heat until slightly thickened and clear; add cherries. Simmer for 3 to 5 minutes. Cool. Stir in vanilla and a dash of salt. Chill. Serve over ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

Note: If you want to add kirsch, stir in a tablespoon or two of this clear cherry brandy with the vanilla and salt.

When you take baked cream puffs and eclairs out of the oven, don't let a draft hit them while they're cooling. This way they have a good chance of staying toasty.

Dear Abby: I'm With You!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our parents just celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. My sisters and brothers and I invited all our friends, and gave mother and dad a memorable surprise party. The guests brought lovely presents. Neither our mother nor father can read or write English and everybody knows it. I suggested writing a thank you note to each person who brought a gift and sign it, "The children of Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So."

My sister says she never heard of anything so ignorant. She says WE should write the thank you notes as though our parents had written them and sign THEIR names to them. My dad has been signing his name with an "X" at the bank for 55 years. Who is right?

THE CHILDREN

DEAR CHILDREN: Because it was a surprise party and you children invited the guests, it would be proper for you to write the thank you notes and sign them, "The children of Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So."

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old son is interested in a girl he met at school. We have nothing against her, but she is not of our faith. Recently she has been taking our son to church with her. We think this is a little too possessive for a 17-year-old girl. Should we put a stop to it or ignore it? We don't want to do the wrong thing. How have other parents, faced with this problem, handled it?

YOUNG MAN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The girl is not "taking" your son to church without his consent. He may be going out of curiosity or courtesy. Say nothing about it. If you "forbid" him to go, you will only force him to spring to her defense.

P.S. Why doesn't he invite her to his church? What's sauce for the goose, you know.

DEAR ABBY: I am ten years old and have a boxer dog named Mert. I love her very much and sometimes I kiss her. I never kiss her on the mouth. I kiss her on the forehead. My parents say it is stupid and not even clean. Mert IS clean as a person, Abby, and I don't see anything wrong with kissing her. What is your advice?

DOG KISSER

DEAR KISSER: Obey your parents, Honey. A vet once told me that people shouldn't kiss dogs because dogs are apt to get something from people! So if you love Mert, hug her, but don't kiss her.

Unload your problem on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Good Groomers Are Aid for Keeping Pretty

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

You need more than cosmetics to keep you pretty. You also need a collection of "good groomers." They're the little aids that do the jobs, keeping your appearance band-box-fresh.

Right at the head of the list are brushes — the kind that shine shoes and give clothes the brush-off.

Closet accessories — such as shoe trees, hat boxes, garment bags and belt racks — are in this category, too, for they keep your wardrobe in good ready-to-wear shape.

Stocking bags that store hose safely are good groomers. So are jewel boxes that keep your sparklers from scratches and dust.

At notion counters, you'll find a number of new good groomers.

Two that are tops do very necessary jobs.

One of them is a clever little roller that picks up lint. Just run it over a lint-covered dress and — zingo! — the lint vanishes. It adheres to the roller surface.

As the surface becomes saturated, you can peel it off, revealing a new surface that ready to catch lint, dog or cat hair's.

The other gadget that women will welcome is a midjet "washing machine" for sheer nylon hose. Actually a small foam container that's shaped like a washing machine, it enables you to launder stockings without snagging them on fingernails.

Put stockings in the little "washer", swish it up and down in two inches of warm soap or detergent suds in the basin. The action forces the suds through the nylons to loosen and flush out soil. Repeat the same action in clear water for rinsing; then compress the washer to squeeze out excess water and nylons are ready to be hung up for speedy drying.

These two little gadgets are welcome additions to the list of good groomers, for each does a job that needs to be done.

Good Groomers Are Aid for Keeping Pretty

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

You need more than cosmetics to keep you pretty. You also need a collection of "good groomers". They're the little aids that do the jobs, keeping your appearance band-box-fresh.

Right at the head of the list are brushes — the kind that shine shoes and give clothes the brush-off.

Closet accessories — such as shoe trees, hat boxes, garment bags and belt racks — are in this category, too, for they keep your wardrobe in good ready-to-wear shape.

Stocking bags that store hose safely are good groomers. So are jewel boxes that keep your sparklers from scratches and dust.

At notion counters, you'll find a number of new good groomers.

Two that are tops do very necessary jobs.

One of them is a clever little roller that picks up lint. Just run it over a lint-covered dress and — zingo! — the lint vanishes. It adheres to the roller surface.

As the surface becomes saturated, you can peel it off, revealing a new surface that ready to catch lint, dog or cat hair's.

The other gadget that women will welcome is a midget "washing machine" for sheer nylon hose. Actually a small foam container that's shaped like a washing machine, it enables you to launder stockings without snagging them on fingernails.

Put stockings in the little "washer", swish it up and down in two inches of warm soap or detergent suds in the basin. The action forces the suds through the nylons to loosen and flush out soil. Repeat the same action in clear water for rinsing; then compress the washer to squeeze out excess water and nylons are ready to be hung up for speedy drying.

These two little gadgets are welcome additions to the list of good groomers, for each does a job that needs to be done.

Last Quarter Spurt Gives Packers Win over Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — The mighty Green Bay Packers won by as wide a margin as expected, but certainly not as easily as expected over a tough, speedy college All-Star team in Soldier Field Friday night.

Stiffened by the passing of John Hadl of Kansas, the collegians made it a battle until a 21-point final period Green Bay barrage buried them under a 42-20 score in the 29th annual All-Star game.

The champions of the National Football League led only 21-20 going into the final quarter. It took a record-breaking performance by Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr to finally break the backs of the charged up All-Stars.

Starr hurled five touchdown passes, including a pair each to Boyd Dowler and Max McGee, setting a new mark in this colorful grid series, now standing 19 to 8 in favor of the pros with 2 ties.

The All-Star of the night in this nationally televised contest was Hadl, a cool, poised and agile all-around back who should be a rookie hotshot for the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League this season.

Hadl completed his first five passes, four of them setting up the first All-Star touchdown that gave the collegians a surprising 7-0 jump in the opening period.

Some observers guessed that the turning point of the game might have been the removal of the hot Kansas performer in the second period.

Hadl returned to the game later, but the All-Stars never seemed to regain the spark they had under the Jayhawk star in the first period.

Hadl completed 6 of 10 passes in all, had the Packers in a stew with his rollout jockeying and boomed five punts for a 48.8 yard average.

Packer coach Vince Lombardi said of Hadl: "He surprised us the way he moved around. He showed great agility and poise."

Had the All-Stars not lost two great backs, Ernie Davis of Syracuse and Ron Bull of Baylor, by pregame illness the Packers might have had their backs to the wall all the way.

As it was, the All-Star ground attack produced only 68 yards, while the collegiate passing attack was not quite able to muster the deadly accuracy of Starr, who completed 13 of 22 tosses for 255 yards and five touchdowns.

The All-Stars led the vaunted Packers no fewer than three times. A one-yard smash by LSU's Earl Gros—after Hadl had completed four straight passes—electrified the crowd of 65,000 by pushing the All-Stars ahead 7-0 the first time they had the ball.

In the second quarter, the collegians took a 10-7 margin on the first of two field goals by Navy's Greg Mather — a 26-yard boot. However, the Packers went ahead 14-10 on Starr's four-yard pass to Ron Kramer.

In the third period, an upset still appeared in the making when Hadl hit Ohio State's Charley Bryant with a 22-yard scoring shot for a 17-14 All-Star lead.

The final All-Star bid, however, proved to be Mather's 14-yard field goal late in the third period, shaving Green Bay's margin to 21-20.

Early in the fourth period, Green Bay wrapped it up with Starr firing touchdown passes of 20 and 35 yards to McGee. A three-yard touchdown thrust by Green Bay's Elijah Pitts with time running out put the final frosting on the cake.

Blasingame's Homer Ices Redleg Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Blasingame's new hitting prowess may be a surprise but it's pure pleasure for Cincinnati Reds manager Fred Hutchinson.

The skinny second baseman rapped his second home run Friday night, helping the Reds outlast New York's Mets, 8-6.

The homer supplied an insurance run in the top of the ninth, but Cincinnati's pitching was so wobbly, Bill Henry had to take over to strike out the last two Mets.

Hutch said Blasingame's come back this year is one of the Reds' brightest developments.

Joey Jay, 21-game winner last year, was driven from the mound after giving up a dozen hits and five markers. But he was credited with his 16th win of 1962.

Frank Thomas banged a home run off Jay in the second inning and another in the seventh. After the second four-bagger, Marv Throneberry homered and Felix Mantilla singled. That was all for Jay but Jim Brosnan, his reliever, gave up another home run on his first pitch to Clarence Coleman.

The four runs only kept the Mets within one of a tie, 7-6. The Reds had punched out five runs in the fourth starting with Vada Pinson's single and Jerry Lynch's double set up a two-run safety by Frank Robinson. Gordie Coleman followed with his 21st homer. Johnny Edwards got on via an error, went to third on Jay's single and scored on Eddie Kasko's single.

Bts-B-Abbey, driven by J. D. Forrer of Gratis, Preble County, died of a broken neck. The crash occurred when the sulkies involved apparently locked wheels.

Driver Dick Seabrook of Urbana suffered fractures of both arms and possible internal injuries.

Drysdale Heads For 30 Wins

20th Victory Comes At Hands of Cubs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's 20 down and 10 to go for Don Drysdale, who's given the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers their largest bulge of the season while taking another giant step toward becoming the major leagues' first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean.

Drysdale, a fireballing 26-year-old right-hander who never had won more than 17 and had only nine victories at this point in 1961, shook off a shaky first inning Friday night to defeat the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and become the first 20-game winner of the season.

Drysdale also entered these pertinent statistics in his log:

—He is ahead of the pace set by the last two pitchers to close in on the 30-game mark achieved by Dean in 1934. Don Newcombe of the Dodgers reached the 20-victory mark on Aug. 23 en route to a 27-7 season in 1956. Robin Roberts, who posted a 28-7 log for Philadelphia in 1952, won No. 20 on Aug. 19.

—He has won 10 straight—tying the longest streak of the season.

—He has gone 46 1-3 innings—more than five games—without issuing a single walk.

The triumph gave the Dodgers a five-game bulge over the second-place San Francisco Giants, who lost their fifth in six games, 5-2 to Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati's defending champions remained 8½ back in third place by outslugging New York 8-6 for their 14th victory in 16 games despite two homers by the Mets' Frank Thomas. Thomas' 24th and 25th homers, giving him six in three consecutive games, tied a major league record.

In the only other NL game played, Houston belted St. Louis 8-3. The Philadelphia-Milwaukee game was rained out.

The American League leading New York Yankees boosted their edge to 6½ games by walloping the Chicago White Sox 10-2. Minnesota defeated Detroit 7-4 and moved into a second-place tie with the Los Angeles Angels, beaten by Baltimore 6-3. Cleveland edged Kansas City 1-0 and Washington nipped Boston 2-1.

With Ernie Davis, the 1961 Heisman Trophy winner, lost for the season, the spotlight was on running backs Tom Wilson, obtained in a trade with Los Angeles, and Merrill Douglas, who came from Dallas.

Jim Ninowski was to get first shot at quarterback, but Frank Ryan and John Furman also were to see action. Ninowski and Ryan hit receivers with regularity in Friday afternoon's drill when the Browns concentrated on passing.

Blasingame's Homer Ices Redleg Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Blasingame's new hitting prowess may be a surprise but it's pure pleasure for Cincinnati Reds manager Fred Hutchinson.

The skinny second baseman rapped his second home run Friday night, helping the Reds outlast New York's Mets, 8-6.

The homer supplied an insurance run in the top of the ninth, but Cincinnati's pitching was so wobbly, Bill Henry had to take over to strike out the last two Mets.

Hutch said Blasingame's come back this year is one of the Reds' brightest developments.

Joey Jay, 21-game winner last year, was driven from the mound after giving up a dozen hits and five markers. But he was credited with his 16th win of 1962.

Frank Thomas banged a home run off Jay in the second inning and another in the seventh. After the second four-bagger, Marv Throneberry homered and Felix Mantilla singled. That was all for Jay but Jim Brosnan, his reliever, gave up another home run on his first pitch to Clarence Coleman.

The four runs only hiked the Mets within one of a tie, 7-6. The Reds had punched out five runs in the fourth starting with Vada Pinson's single and Jerry Lynch's double set up a two-run safety by Frank Robinson. Gordie Coleman followed with his 21st homer. Johnny Edwards got on via an error, went to third on Jay's single and scored on Eddie Kasko's single.

3-Horse Crackup Mars Xenia Race

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—The first heat of the first race at the Greene County Fair was marred Friday night when a three-horse crackup resulted in the death of one of the steeds. Three drivers were injured, one seriously.

Bts-B-Abby, driven by J. D. Forrer of Gratis, Preble County, died of a broken neck. The crash occurred when the sulkies involved apparently locked wheels.

Driver Dick Seabrook of Urbana suffered fractures of both arms and possible internal injuries.

There will be a coon dog water race 2 p. m. Sunday at the Scioto Valley Coon Hunters grounds one-half mile south of the junction of 316 and 104 on Route 104.

Drysdale Heads For 30 Wins

20th Victory Comes At Hands of Cubs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's 20 down and 10 to go for Don Drysdale, who's given the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers their largest bulge of the season while taking another giant step toward becoming the major leagues' first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean.

Drysdale, a fireballing 26-year-old right-hander who never had won more than 17 and had only nine victories at this point in 1961, shook off a shaky first inning Friday night to defeat the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and become the first 20-game winner of the season.

Drysdale also entered these pertinent statistics in his log:

—He is ahead of the pace set by the last 20 pitchers to close in on the 30-game mark achieved by Dean in 1934. Don Newcombe of the Dodgers reached the 20-victory mark on Aug. 23 en route to a 27-7 season in 1956. Robin Roberts, who posted a 28-7 log for Philadelphia in 1952, won No. 20 on Aug. 19.

—He has won 10 straight—tying the longest streak of the season.

—He has gone 46 1-3 innings—more than five games—without issuing a single walk.

The triumph gave the Dodgers a five-game bulge over the second-place San Francisco Giants, who lost their fifth in six games, 5-2 to Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati's defending champions remained 8½ back in third place by outslugging New York 8-6 for their 14th victory in 16 games despite two homers by the Mets' Frank Thomas. Thomas' 24th and 25th homers, giving him six in three consecutive games, tied a major league record.

In the only other NL game played, Houston belted St. Louis 8-3. The Philadelphia-Milwaukee game was rained out.

The American League leading New York Yankees boosted their edge to 6½ games by walloping the Chicago White Sox 10-2. Minnesota defeated Detroit 7-4 and moved into a second-place tie with the Los Angeles Angels, beaten by Baltimore 6-3. Cleveland edged Kansas City 1-0 and Washington nipped Boston 2-1.

Columbus Jets Edge Syracuse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Columbus Jets, sidetracked briefly, have resumed their drive on second place in the International League.

The Jets, who had a 12-game winning string snapped Thursday, edged Syracuse 4-3 Friday night. They now trail faltering Toronto by only 1½ games.

The Leafs lost their fourth straight 5-2 to Atlanta. League leading Jacksonville—10 games in front—split with Buffalo, winning 15-0 then losing 9-4. Rochester blanked Richmond 7-0.

Rex Johnson, who went 4-for-4, helped the Jets to an early 4-0 lead, but it took eighth-inning relief help from Boo Priddy to quench a three-run rally. Until then Jet right-anter Tom Parsons had a four-hit shutout going.

7,000 To Watch Browns Scrimmage

HRAM, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Browns' coaching staff planned to watch several newcomers closely in the squad's first full-scale scrimmage this afternoon.

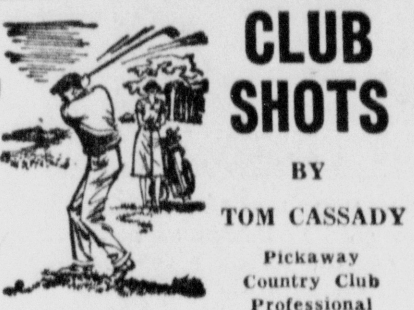

A crowd of 7,000 was expected to watch the workout.

With Ernie Davis, the 1961 Heisman Trophy winner, lost for the season, the spotlight was on running backs Tom Wilson, obtained in a trade with Los Angeles, and Merrill Douglas, who came from Dallas.

Jim Ninowski was to get first shot at quarterback, but Frank Ryan and John Furman also were to see action. Ninowski and Ryan hit receivers with regularity in Friday afternoon's drill when the Browns concentrated on passing.

Sub Infielder Provides Win For Indians

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jack Kubiszyn, Cleveland's substitute shortstop, couldn't have timed his first major league home run better.

Dick Donovan will vouch for that. Kubiszyn slammed the homer to give Donovan his 15th victory of the year Friday night, 10 over Kansas City.

The seventhrinning blast broke up a duel between Donovan and Bill Fischer, who gave up only five hits. Donovan surrendered eight hits—all singles.

Kubiszyn, filling in for Woodie Held who underwent minor surgery Friday for a hip injury, underscored the importance of his hit after the game.

"This is an important year for me," he said. "Last season was a wasted one. I sat around up here. This has to be the big year. It'll decide whether I can make it or not."

Donovan gratefully shook Jerry Kindall's hand after the game and told the second baseman, "Thank you, Jerry."

"That fellow (Kindall) is absolutely great," Donovan told the press. "What a job he did behind me tonight."

The Indians' ace right-hander didn't walk a man. With both pitchers effective, the game was over in an hour and 42 minutes, the fastest game the Tribe has played since 1953.

Donovan permitted only one man to reach second base. He has three of Cleveland's last six victories.
